Our story begins many years ago when Mary Browne married Sir John Evelyn. Now known as Lady Mary Evelyn, she lived with Sir John at Wotton - in a grand manor house, set in acres of woodland, with beautifully designed gardens inspired by his passion for plants and travel. It is no secret that Sir John Evelyn was quite eccentric, he even had a menagerie - home to animals of all different shapes and sizes, including tortoises and kangaroos.

A magical place for such a young girl as Mary to live, it soon became a home filled with love and creativity.

Sir John Evelyn often travelled to Paris leaving Lady Evelyn alone at Wotton House. She filled her days spending time in the gardens and the menagerie. Drawing, reading, and tending to the estate's animals – who became her trusted companions. One of her favourite past times would be to have tea parties in the secret garden. Lady Mary would imagine that her wildlife friends were her guests fitted out in their finest top hats and cravats.
